Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 12-13 and 20-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cooper, Jr. (US. Pat. No. 4,286,416).

Cooper, Jr. discloses all that is recited in the claims since it teaches an outer shell 22 (corresponding to the claimed “vessel defining a hollow interior”), a tube sheet 28 located within said outer shell 22 carrying corrosion material (corresponding to the claimed “aromatic substance”); pressure tubing 52 (corresponding to the claimed “oblong implement shaped to penetrate into said interior and having a first abrasive end”) having bristles 64 and a distal terminus at the top of outer shell 22 at outlet nozzle 44 (corresponding to the claimed “unevenly shaped mesh grid” (See Fig. 1 and 2).

In regards to the new limitation, the claimed tube sheet 28 is capable of carrying a releasable aromatic substance by filling the tube sheet 28 with said substance. The Cooper sheet can hold an aromatic releasable substance as instantly claimed. Hence, the intended use limitation does not provide a structural feature that provides patentably distinction over Cooper.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 4-11 and 14-15 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Art Unit: 1731

Applicant's arguments filed 3/5/07 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's argument that the sheet claimed by applicant is adapted to carry a releasable aromatic substance, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim.

In the instant case, the structure disclosed by Cooper is capable of performing the intended use claimed by applicant. The Cooper sheet can hold an aromatic or non-aromatic releasable substance as instantly claimed. Hence, the intended use limitations does not provide a patentably distinct structural feature.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
